It’s an exciting time to be part of the Baylor family, especially following the “Year of the Bear.” Join us for Baylor’s 102nd Homecoming celebration held the weekend of Nov. 2-3, 2012.

“Homecoming is a great time to reconnect with alumni, friends,” said Terry Maness, dean of the Hankamer School of Business. “The university and the Hankamer School of Business has had many achievements this year, and we look forward to what the future holds.”

The Hankamer School of Business homecoming reception has moved indoors this year and will be held the evening of Friday, Nov. 2, from 6:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. on the 5th floor of the Cashion Academic Center. Smooth jazz music will be playing and hors d’oeuvres and refreshments will be served at this event, where you can mix and mingle with friends, alumni, and business school faculty and staff.

As we celebrate and observe Homecoming traditions, we also anticipate the future of the Hankamer School of Business, and the importance of your involvement becomes even more apparent, whether it is as a current student, alumnus, parent, faculty or staff member, donor or friend. We hope you will return to campus this year to join us in experiencing the events of Baylor Homecoming 2012.

Accounting & Business Law

Charles Davis, Emeritus O. Hanke Chair of Accounting and Walter Plummer Professor of Accounting, presented “It’s Story Time: Creating Context for Teaching Managerial Accounting” for Wiley & Sons Faculty Network Webinar, February 2012 and March 2012. Elizabeth Davis, executive vice president and provost of Baylor University, served as coauthor.

David Hurtt, assistant professor, with Jason MacGregor, assistant professor, wrote “Evaluating the Effect of Abnormal Audit Fees on Future Restatements,” which was published in Current Issues in Auditing, May 2012.

Jason MacGregor, assistant professor, with David Hurtt and Alan Blankley, wrote “Abnormal Audit Fees and Restatements,” which was published in Auditing: A Journal of Practice and Theory, Vol. 31, No. 1.

MacGregor presented “Relationship between Audit Lag and Restatements,” at the Auditing Section Midyear Conference held in Savannah, Ga., January 2012. Coauthors were David Hurtt and Alan Blankley.

Marty Stuebs, associate professor, along with Gia Chivis, clinical professor, director of Graduate Accounting Programs and holder of the PricewaterhouseCoopers Faculty Fellowship for Teaching Excellence in Accounting, wrote “What Ethics Lie Beyond Oil?”, which was published in the Journal of Accounting Education, Vol. 3, No. 3, July 2012.

Economics

Scott Cunningham, assistant professor, wrote “Religion, Corruption, and the Rule of Law,” which was accepted for publication in the Journal of Money, Credit & Banking, July 2012.

Tissa Emerson, associate professor and associate department chair for the Undergraduate Program, presented “Women and the Choice to Study Economics” at the Allied Social Science Association held in Chicago, Ill., January 2012. KimMarie McGoldrick served as coauthor and co-presenter; Kevin Mumford served as coauthor.

Earl Grinols, Distinguished Professor of Economics, wrote the chapter “Efficient Intervention and Entitlement Replacement,” which was accepted for publication in the book The Economic Challenge: Fiscal, Monetary, and Financial Sustainability, Entrepreneurship and the Common Good, 2012.

James Henderson, Ban Williams Professor of Economics and academic director of the MBA Healthcare Administration Program, presented “The Constitutionality of the Affordable Care Act” at the B & Healthier U: Healthcare Symposium held at Baylor University in Waco, Texas, February 2012.

Henderson presented “Affordable Care Act: The End of Federalism” for the Association of Private Enterprise Education in Las Vegas, Nev., April 2012.

Joseph Mckinney, Ban Williams Professor of International Economics and associate director of the McBride Center, presented “What does the United States’ ‘pivot to Asia’ Portend for Transatlantic Economic Relations?” at the Transatlantic Studies Association Annual Meeting held at University College Cork, Ireland, July 2012.

Charles North, associate professor and associate director of Baylor Business Fellows, presented “The Political Economy of Church and State” at the Annual Meeting of the Association for the Study of Religion, Economics, and Culture held in Orange, Calif., March 2012.

North, with Wafa Orman and Carl Gwin, wrote “Religion, Corruption, and the Rule of Law,” which was accepted for publication in the Journal of Money, Credit & Banking, July 2012.

ECONOMICS

Tissa Emerson, associate professor and associate department chair for the Undergraduate Program, presented “Women and the Choice to Study Economics” at the Allied Social Science Association held in Chicago, Ill., January 2012. KimMarie McGoldrick served as coauthor and co-presenter; Kevin Mumford served as coauthor.

Earl Grinols, Distinguished Professor of Economics, wrote the chapter “Efficient Intervention and Entitlement Replacement,” which was accepted for publication in the book The Economic Challenge: Fiscal, Monetary, and Financial Sustainability, Entrepreneurship and the Common Good, 2012.

James Henderson, Ban Williams Professor of Economics and academic director of the MBA Healthcare Administration Program, presented “The Constitutionality of the Affordable Care Act” at the B & Healthier U: Healthcare Symposium held at Baylor University in Waco, Texas, February 2012.

Henderson presented “Affordable Care Act: The End of Federalism” for the Association of Private Enterprise Education in Las Vegas, Nev., April 2012.

Joseph Mckinney, Ban Williams Professor of International Economics and associate director of the McBride Center, presented “What does the United States’ ‘pivot to Asia’ Portend for Transatlantic Economic Relations?” at the Transatlantic Studies Association Annual Meeting held at University College Cork, Ireland, July 2012.

Charles North, associate professor and associate director of Baylor Business Fellows, presented “The Political Economy of Church and State” at the Annual Meeting of the Association for the Study of Religion, Economics, and Culture held in Orange, Calif., March 2012.

North, with Wafa Orman and Carl Gwin, wrote “Religion, Corruption, and the Rule of Law,” which was accepted for publication in the Journal of Money, Credit & Banking, July 2012.

ECONOMICS

Tissa Emerson, associate professor and associate department chair for the Undergraduate Program, presented “Women and the Choice to Study Economics” at the Allied Social Science Association held in Chicago, Ill., January 2012. KimMarie McGoldrick served as coauthor and co-presenter; Kevin Mumford served as coauthor.

Earl Grinols, Distinguished Professor of Economics, wrote the chapter “Efficient Intervention and Entitlement Replacement,” which was accepted for publication in the book The Economic Challenge: Fiscal, Monetary, and Financial Sustainability, Entrepreneurship and the Common Good, 2012.

James Henderson, Ban Williams Professor of Economics and academic director of the MBA Healthcare Administration Program, presented “The Constitutionality of the Affordable Care Act” at the B & Healthier U: Healthcare Symposium held at Baylor University in Waco, Texas, February 2012.

Henderson presented “Affordable Care Act: The End of Federalism” for the Association of Private Enterprise Education in Las Vegas, Nev., April 2012.

Joseph Mckinney, Ban Williams Professor of International Economics and associate director of the McBride Center, presented “What does the United States’ ‘pivot to Asia’ Portend for Transatlantic Economic Relations?” at the Transatlantic Studies Association Annual Meeting held at University College Cork, Ireland, July 2012.

Charles North, associate professor and associate director of Baylor Business Fellows, presented “The Political Economy of Church and State” at the Annual Meeting of the Association for the Study of Religion, Economics, and Culture held in Orange, Calif., March 2012.

North, with Wafa Orman and Carl Gwin, wrote “Religion, Corruption, and the Rule of Law,” which was accepted for publication in the Journal of Money, Credit & Banking, July 2012.