Networking websites are great for connecting with other professionals. But there’s no substitute for the kind of relationship building you get when you spend time with friends.

Get involved with the BBN today—it might surprise you how much serious networking gets done between bites of bratwurst at a football watch party or backyard cookout!

The Baylor Business Network hosts monthly breakfasts, luncheons featuring prominent speakers, and networking opportunities for alumni on any career path. Events and speakers vary by location.

BBN members can draw upon a vast network of professionals to exchange ideas, stay on top of industry trends and develop business partnerships.

If there isn’t already a BBN chapter in your area, you can start your own!
